About the Science Bazaar

The Oxford Brookes Science Bazaar is a free, family-friendly event designed especially for children aged 5–12, featuring hands-on activities that bring science and creativity to life.

Attracting thousands of visitors each year, it is delivered by university staff, students, and community partners who are passionate about inspiring curiosity and discovery in young minds.

Our Impact

Our focus on inclusivity ensures that we reach underrepresented groups, including local schools, underserved communities, and families who might not otherwise have access to such experiences. Through direct engagement with researchers and students, we aim to break down barriers to STEM education, encouraging the next generation of scientists, engineers, and innovators from all backgrounds.

We're deeply committed to inclusivity, with a relaxed, autism-friendly early opening - a vital part of making the event accessible to all.
